
Work in Progress!

Posted by Corn Meal - 2005/09/23 00:11

To all the nice people who frequent these forums,

I just received a return email from the nice folks that put up this website. What we are all seeing is just the beginning of something very positive. There will be new reading each day from now on out.

I was told that this website is a work in progress.

Keep up the good work Worm Digest!

Corn Meal,

If all sites could be a work in progress like this site! What I've seen so far is more than encouraging for a site as is. I can only imagine what the administrator is up to today.

Thank you again to the people who are at the wheel.

Cheers.

Alfred

To Scooter,

I see that you increased the text size on the font in the forums. Nice job! I can read the forums easier.

Thank you!

foobar, I agree with you. I definitely appreciate the larger font for the forum. It's much easier for my vision. It's wonderful to have the quick and sensitive response to our needs and concerns by the Worm Digest administration and staff.

To Scooter,

Wow I just got the flash flood 60 second time out!

I am new to these forums and navigating throught the worm digest. I hope to gain more time to read all the articles. Is there a way to click to a forum and respond to an article at the end of the article? Am I correct in understanding the set up now includes going to the forum via the description of the category of the article?

I appreciate all your good work with the worm digest. The information is fabulous. Looking forward to MORE PICTURES!
